

Ask me a question about
Business Valuations

Resume

Robert A. Klein

Facebook

LinkedIn

Blogspot

Twitter

Google+

Business Valuation Appraisals

Business Appraisals are the dynamic process, product and outcome of valuation consulting, business and financial analysis.

There are various reasons why groups and/or business owners, professional practices and individuals, small businesses and mid-sized companies would want a business appraisal:

- Buying or selling a business or practice
- Divorce proceedings
- Estate planning estates/probate
- obtaining loans
- Selling stock or portfolio holdings
- Tax planning
- succession planning
- buy/sell agreements
- Employee stock plans and growth planning.

Business appraisals will provide the requestor of the timely, accurate and detailed business appraisal with valued insight and verified financial analysis that accurately values and characterizes a business in its entirety.

Business appraisals can be seen as anything from a great planning tool to a business necessity. The clarity that an honest business evaluation from a trusted and respected source like <http://www.businessappraisals.com> can bring to the table is undeniably invaluable.

Two other identified uses of a business appraisal are summarized below:

(i) Strategic planning is such a key element of business today. Short, medium and long-term planning is essential to ensure staying viable and focused on the business goals and endeavor. M&A (Mergers & Acquisitions), marketing plan development, buying and/or selling a business in the current market and all the implications that holds need support, guidance and input from expert financial professionals and business appraisers are key in this activity. They bring unique perspective, determination and client-centric focus to any and all activity involved in business appraisal and form part of a support network that no modern-day business owner or corporation could and /or should be without.

(ii) Anyone and everyone who needs to know what a business is worth will need a business appraisal. Any business appraisals assignment is a confidential undertaking between the business appraiser and the client. No information regarding the business appraisal shall be disclosed to any third party without the express consent of the client. It sheds light on hidden economic value and embedded wealth that most people are unaware of. It can also highlight weaknesses and potential lingering or slumbering, even "forgotten" problems, ills and hurts that could harm the business in the long run.

Business appraisals are the regular check-ups required to ensure overall holistic management of the well-being and success of your economic undertaking. To learn more about quality business appraisals visit our web site <http://www.businessappraisals.com/>

home | business appraiser | business appraisals | business valuations | working appraisal | business components | profit & asset | contact us | related sites

Privacy Policy - All Content © Copyright 2014 Business Appraisals ? All Rights Reserved ? an ed orcutt web development ? links